

Barfing Jack Guacamole

by Barfing Jill

Art by Shane McGowan

BARFING JACK GOT seasick during the pumpkin boat races. Luckily, his barf is made of a delicious dip you can eat with tortilla chips.

What You'll Need:

- | | |
|--------------------------------|-------------------------------------|
| 1 small pumpkin | ½ onion |
| pumpkin carver or sharp knife* | ½ cup fresh cilantro |
| metal spoon | 1 tsp garlic powder |
| cookie sheet | ½ tsp salt |
| 6 avocados | tortilla chips |
| 2 limes | *Knife is for adult use only |
| 2 Roma tomatoes | |

What to Do:

1. With an adult, slice off the top of the pumpkin.
2. Scoop out the guts and carve the pumpkin's expression—surprised, angry, or sick to its stomach.
3. Place the pumpkin on the cookie sheet and refrigerate.
4. Wash and chop the tomatoes, onion, and cilantro.
5. Remove the skin and pit of the avocado. Mash the green fruit in a bowl.
6. Squeeze the limes over the mashed avocados. Mix the garlic powder, salt, and chopped veggies until smooth.
7. When ready to serve, spread the green "barf" from the mouth of the pumpkin to the center of the serving tray.
8. Eat up the guacamole barf with tortilla chips.

art © 2017 by Shane McGowan