

September

by Sharon Ruth Gill

While grasshoppers sing their whirring tune
On hot September afternoons
We steal a little summer.

A few last hours in the pool
Until the rising harvest moon
Speaks of summer ending soon,
Of Autumn's cool,

And tomorrow,
School.

Illustrated by Lee Hodges

text © 2016 by Sharon Ruth Gill, art © 2016 by Lee Hodges